FROM CHAIRMAN'S DESK

Dear Children,

In recent weeks, during Q&A sessions with students in Grades 7 and 9, one concern surfaced repeatedly: confusion over the use of technology in education—specifically AI tools like ChatGPT and the role of social media in schoolwork. To help clarify these doubts, I wanted to share a few thoughts on how we should view these powerful tools.

What is AI, exactly? In its current form, AI is best understood as a highly advanced language processor. ChatGPT was trained on vast amounts of human-generated text—books, articles, and websites. While it may seem like a search engine, there is a fundamental difference: Google retrieves and displays existing information, while AI predicts and generates new text.

Using statistical models and algorithms (that means high level mathematics and computer code), AI analyses language patterns to construct a response. It organizes information into a readable format, but it does not ‘understand’ a subject the way a human does. It is calculating the next most likely word, not ‘thinking.’

So why is relying too much on AI a problem—especially for school assignments? What can go wrong if we let AI do our thinking for us? Let’s look at a few reasons:

First, AI can be wrong. AI systems sometimes produce answers that sound confident but are factually incorrect or misleading. They do not truly understand the subject or verify facts; they only predict what seems likely based on patterns in data. If you rely on AI blindly, you may end up submitting incorrect or poorly reasoned work without realising it.

Second, it weakens understanding. If AI writes your assignments, you miss the opportunity to struggle with ideas, make mistakes, and learn from them. Over time, this reduces your ability to think independently, explain concepts clearly, and apply knowledge in new situations.

Third, it creates problems during exams and assessments. AI will not be available in the exam hall. If you have relied on AI to complete your schoolwork, you may find yourself unprepared to answer questions on your own, even on topics you have “submitted” assignments on.

Finally, it undermines honesty and self-confidence. Submitting AI-generated work as your own raises ethical concerns and can erode trust between students and teachers. More importantly, it prevents you from developing confidence in your own abilities and ideas.

Used wisely, AI can support learning. Used carelessly, it can replace learning, which means you do not learn anything, and that is what makes over-reliance on AI a serious problem.

Therefore, using AI as a Partner, can be beneficial. Using it as a Proxy i.e. a substitute for your thinking, can be harmful.

How can we use AI as an assistant rather than a replacement for our own intelligence? In my next communication to you I will suggest some tips and pointers.

Blessings!

MESSAGE FROM EDUCATIONISTS

Veins of Steel: The Brave Hearts Who Shaped India's Destiny

"Manpower without unity is not a strength unless it is harmonized and united properly, then it becomes a spiritual power."

— Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel

The story of India's journey from revolution to resolution is one woven with threads of sacrifice, courage, and unwavering faith. Generations of Indians stood tall against oppression, driven by the dream of a free and united nation. Their valour was not merely on the battlefield—it was in the classrooms where ideas bloomed, in the streets where voices rose, and in the hearts of those who believed that India could and must stand as one.

Rashmi P V

The revolution was not only about the fight for freedom from colonial rule; it was also a battle of ideals—justice, equality, and unity. From the uprising of 1857 to the peaceful marches of Mahatma Gandhi, India's freedom struggle was defined by the determination of its people to transform their vision into reality. This transformation required not only the courage to rebel but also the wisdom to rebuild.

Among the great architects of this resolution stood Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, the Iron Man of India. As the first Deputy Prime Minister and Home Minister, Patel's foresight and firm resolve were instrumental in uniting more than 560 princely states into one sovereign nation. His leadership was marked by discipline, pragmatism, and an unshakeable belief in the power of unity. When others saw obstacles, Patel saw opportunities to bind India together with the invisible thread of national integrity. His legacy reminds us that true revolution is complete only when it leads to unity and progress.

Even today, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel remains my greatest inspiration and motivation. His vision of an undivided India inspires me to bring people together, to see strength in diversity, and to stand firm for what is right. He is my inspiration in uniting India and people together in my own life, and his courage teaches me that leadership is not about power, but about purpose and perseverance.

Diary Entry of an Indian Army Soldier at Kargil

7 July, 1999

Tonight the air of the mountains feel heavier than ever. The cold had numbed my hands and each breath was a struggle. Last night, I had a dream about the stars, but tonight, the smoke hid them. A loud bang echoes somewhere as I hold my gun close. Even if the war was difficult, my spirit will not give up. My hands retrieve the tricolour tucked in my pocket and I remember why I'm here. If tomorrow demands my last breath, I shall gladly give it, thinking of my mother's warm smile. Because in the end, this is why I am here. So that the people in my country can gaze up at the stars and sleep peacefully.

Parent's Reflection

SHISHYA BEML school plays a vital role in shaping my children's personality, and helping them overcome stage fear and develop public speaking skills.

Reshma. S

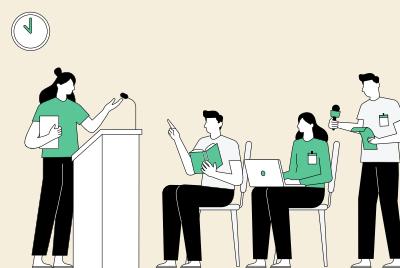

By drawing inspiration from our freedom fighters, who bravely spoke out against injustice, school encourages children to express themselves confidently, helping them find their voice, equipped to make a difference in the world, just as Gandhiji's speeches ignited nation's passion for freedom.

The school incorporates theatre and drama activities that encourages students to express themselves creatively, showcasing their talents in all activities. Students are taught presentation skills, including body language, tone, and voice modulation, helping them become confident communicators like Subhas Chandra Bose.

The school provides opportunities for the students to take on leadership roles, helping them build assertiveness like Queen of Jhansi who fearlessly led her troops. Just like our freedom fighters, perseverance and determination can help them overcome challenges.

The school strive to imbibe the values of struggle and triumph of our freedom fighters, by incorporating various strategies to create a supportive environment for the students to grow and develop into confident individuals.

Safety and Awareness Initiatives

Vigilance is not a one time act; it is a daily habit that protects us all.

Vigilance Awareness Week, observed till 31 October, was marked by enthusiastic participation from students of Nursery to Grade XII. Throughout the month, they took part in activities that promoted integrity, awareness and responsible behaviour. Competitions such as essay writing in Hindi, English and Kannada, painting and poster making, extempore sessions and video presentations allowed students to express their ideas creatively while understanding the importance of vigilance in daily life.

These activities not only showcased their talents but also helped them absorb valuable lessons on honesty and accountability. We extend our sincere appreciation to the BEML Organisation for organising the events and encouraging our students by awarding prizes.

The week served as a meaningful reminder that vigilance is a continuous habit that shapes responsible citizens.

Anti-Bullying Campaign: Building a Culture of Kindness and Respect.

As part of the school's ongoing efforts to nurture awareness and responsibility, the Anti-Bullying Campaign played a vital role in reinforcing values of kindness and respect among students. Through interactive sessions and guided discussions, learners understood the impact of their words and actions, and the importance of creating a safe, inclusive environment for all.

This initiative was conducted alongside other health and safety programmes such as First Aid Training, which equipped students with essential life-saving skills. Students also expressed their creativity and compassion through the Organ Donation Poster-Making Activity, spreading awareness about the gift of life.

Environmental consciousness was strengthened through the Say No to Plastic, Save Dolphin, and Swachh Bharat Competitions, motivating learners to protect the planet. Additionally, the Say No to Drugs campaign reminded students of the importance of healthy choices and self-discipline.

Through these collective efforts, the Anti-Bullying Campaign contributed significantly to inspiring students to make health, safety, and well-being a meaningful part of everyday school life.

SPECTRA OF EDUCATION

SAFAL (Structured Assessment for Analysing Learning) for Grade IX & VIII

According to the school's academic vision and in keeping with CBSE guidelines, a shift towards competency-based assessment is essential for strengthening foundational learning. In this direction, the SAFAL examination for Grade IX was conducted online in the school's computer lab, where students attempted objective-type questions designed to assess conceptual understanding, analytical skills, and application of knowledge. Aligned with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, SAFAL is a low-stakes, diagnostic assessment that focuses on measuring actual learning outcomes rather than rote memorization. This initiative supports higher-order thinking and provides valuable insights into students' learning progress, enabling teachers to enhance instructional practices and promote meaningful, competency-based education.

OLYMPIAD; Participation and Achievements

Olympiads are competitive examinations designed to stimulate analytical thinking, problem-solving abilities, and subject proficiency among students. These exams provide a valuable platform for learners to extend their knowledge beyond the regular curriculum and challenge themselves at a higher academic level. With growing enthusiasm and dedication, our students are taking Olympiads seriously and preparing with remarkable commitment. They actively participate in Olympiads across various subjects such as Mathematics, Science, English, Hindi, Kannada, and more, showcasing their interest and academic curiosity. The school encourages them to participate in these prestigious assessments, as they play a significant role in shaping academic discipline, nurturing talent, and preparing learners for future academic pursuits. We are proud to share that Ms. Pradhyayini V and Master Sushruth of Grade IX, Master Yahas Dasari of Grade VII, Ms. Meghashree Hunshyal of Grade VI, Ms. Sharadi V of Grade IV, Master Gokul of Grade V and Ms. Janani Vishwanath of Grade III earned a District-Level Medal in the Kannada Olympiad, bringing honor to the school and inspiring peers to strive for excellence.

The Power of Perspective: Young Minds in Action

The Debate Competition for Grades 6 to 8 at Shishya BEML Public School unfolded as a vibrant celebration of thought, expression, and healthy argument. The journey began with the preliminary round on 27th June 2025, where every student participated on the topic “Is the internet a good thing for society?”, after which four students from each section advanced to the second round.

The next stage challenged participants with the topic “Is online learning better than classroom learning?”, and the best two from each section moved forward. Before the finale, the twelve shortlisted students took part in a mock debate on “Has the internet made our lives more dependent or creative?”, a session that sharpened their reasoning and prepared them for the ultimate test. The final debate was held on 12th November, bringing together the strongest speakers for a compelling discussion on “Technology or time trap: Should children’s screen use be restricted?” The finalists presented their views with impressive clarity, confidence, and respect, turning the event into a lively mosaic of ideas.

In the end, Shaurya was declared the winner for the ‘for’ side of the argument, while Divyansh earned the winner’s position for the ‘against’ side, and Divisha Gupta was honoured as the Best Orator. The event stood as a warm reminder that when young minds are encouraged to think deeply and speak boldly, their voices can illuminate even the most complex questions of the world around them.

ANVESHAN 2025-26: IGNITING CURIOSITY, CREATIVITY & INNOVATION.

The school organised ANVESHAN 2025-26 on 29 November 2025, providing a platform for students to showcase their scientific talent and innovative thinking. Guided by the theme “Empowering Indian Youth for Global Leadership in Science & Innovation for Viksit Bharat,” the exhibition encouraged learners to present bold ideas reflecting India’s scientific aspirations. A total of 19 exhibits were displayed. Class 9 students showcased models on smart and sustainable living, including vertical farming, an oxyhydrogen generator, atmospheric water generators, a piezoelectricity generator, bioplastic, biochar, and a solar- and hydrogen-powered rocket. Class 10 exhibits covered “Affordable Health Tech for All” (breast cancer detection, clinostat, DNA extraction, posture-correction technology), “Startup India – Youth Entrepreneurs in Science” (home security system, smart IoT energy meter), and “Youth in Space & Aerospace Innovation” (ISS, Mars magnetosphere, terraforming, and smart city concepts). Among senior entries, Class 12’s RFID-based attendance system for “Inclusive Education through Science & Technology” stood out. The exhibition also featured a parent quiz, student role-plays of famous scientists, visitor voting, a hands-on zone with bacterial slides, and a selfie board, adding engagement and fun. Thus, the science exhibition highlighted the creativity, scientific curiosity, and innovative thinking that define our students’ learning journey.

Where Courage Meets Purpose

Valor is the quiet, enduring strength that holds a nation together. National integrity thrives when leadership is rooted in honesty, courage, and accountability. Today's youth carry a crucial responsibility in nation-building, to question ethically, act responsibly, and serve selflessly. With education and innovation, young citizens can bridge divides, uphold unity, and redefine progress. True leadership is not about power, but purpose, and India's future depends on the willingness of its youth to lead with integrity, resilience, and a commitment to the greater good.

Learning Leadership from Legends

Amegha Sanju Nair
Grade XI B

As the Sports Captain of Shishya BEML Public School, I Amegha Sanju Nair, have often reflected on what leadership truly means. While sports teaches us teamwork, discipline, and determination, the greatest lessons of courage and responsibility come from the extraordinary individuals who shaped our nation's destiny. Their lives were not just stories; they were powerful examples of leadership, sacrifice, and unwavering commitment. Each of them, in their own way, has inspired me to become a more responsible, empathetic, and determined leader within our school community. Mahatma Gandhi's principle of non-violence taught me that true strength is not always loud or forceful.

Bhagat Singh's fearless dedication to justice showed me the importance of standing firm for what is right, even when it is difficult.

Rani Lakshmibai's courage in the face of adversity teaches me that age and size do not define strength, confidence does. Her bravery encourages me to take charge during intense matches, trust my abilities, and push past self-doubt. When I motivate younger students or help someone who feels left behind, I remember her resilience and her belief that no challenge is too big when passion leads the way.

These brave role models may have fought on battlefields and in movements far different from the grounds of our school. However, I deeply relate with their qualities of courage, discipline, team spirit, compassion and most importantly, leadership. Their lives teach me that leadership is not about authority, it is about service. I have tried my best to make sure that my role as the sports captain was about inspiring others, shouldering responsibility, and creating an environment where everyone can shine.

When Light Learned to Bend

"I thought of my village in Punjab, of oil lamps and darkness. Now I held in my hands the future of communication—conversations traveling as light, information flowing at impossible speeds, surgeons seeing inside human bodies without cutting deep."—Dr. Narinder Singh Kapany.

Narinder Singh Kapany
Father of Fibre Optics

Dr. Narinder Singh Kapany (October 31, 1926 – December 4, 2020), also known as "Father of fiber optics", hailing from Moga, Punjab, transfigured global communication by innovating and pioneering fiber optic technology in the 1950s. Despite a professor declaring "light cannot bend," this Indian physicist refuted and proved otherwise, transmitting images through glass fibers. His invention became one of the revolutionary pillars of modern internet, telecommunications, and medical endoscopy.

An Indian invented the technology connecting the world, yet most Indians don't know his name. True legacy isn't fame—it's impact. Every video call we make honors Kapany's stubborn vision.

A serial entrepreneur with over 100 patents to his name, Kapany launched companies like Optics Technology and Kaptron while pouring his heart into preserving Sikh culture and art. In 2021, after his passing, India honored him with the "Padma Vibhushan", the country's second-highest civilian award. The memoir of the man who Bent Light is a wonderful account of a radiant and humble visionary who saw the light and bent it to change the world.

What is valor?

Reply: What is valor? Have you ever heard the word valor before?
I recall a moment in class when my teacher asked me to define the word Valor. I said it means being brave in difficult situations. When she asked me for an example, I thought of Rani Laxmi Bai and told my teacher how she fought relentlessly, never giving up even when the odds were against her. My teacher smiled and said that valor is not just a word, but something we see in real life. I felt happy that I could connect the meaning to our history. This taught me that learning a word is not just memorizing it, but understanding its importance.
The bravery of the heroes who sacrificed for us didn't just bring independence – it also helped India find solutions and peace after years of struggle. Indians learned that courage and teamwork would overcome fear and injustice. Today, we remember their legacy of valor and honour it by being brave in our own lives. Even small acts like helping a friend or protecting someone who is being treated unfairly, carry the same spirit of valor that shaped India's history.

The Little Man with the Giant Heart

Did you know our second Prime Minister, Lal Bahadur Shastri, was a super hero of kindness?

While everyone knows his famous slogan “Jai Jawan, Jai Kisan”, many don't know the amazing things he did for the common people!

Here are some secrets about his life:

- Girl Power: Long before it was popular, Shastri Ji appointed the very first women bus conductor to help women earn money and be independent.
- Gentle Justice: He hated violence. As a minister, he ordered the police to use water jets instead of harsh lathis (sticks) to control crowds, so people wouldn't get hurt.
- Leading by Example: When India didn't have enough food, he didn't just order people to fast. He stopped cooking dinner in his own house first!

Shastri Ji proved that you don't need to be tall to be a towering leader; you just need a big heart!
